

United States Contributions to the United Nations (UN) System FY 2010

Background

The Fiscal Year (FY) 2010 Annual Report on U.S. Contributions to the UN reflects data collected from a government-wide request issued by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). Each U.S. agency reported for all UN organizations under its purview. The report lists assistance provided by the U.S. government to the UN and its associated entities, including UN agencies, organizations, funds or other bodies. The FY 2010 report reflects commitments made; this may differ from amounts actually paid during the FY.

The OMB report is summarized below. The report, from which this Summary was extracted, can be found on the link provided at the end of this Summary. The information reflects both financial and in-kind support, including assessed contributions, voluntary contributions, grants, and other assistance provided to support UN programs and operations.

Based on data provided by the State Department, the report also provides the U.S. contribution as an approximate percentage of the total contributions received by each entity in FY 2010. Some organizations were not able to report based on the U.S. fiscal year, because they operate on a calendar year or different fiscal year basis; in these cases, the information is provided for their reporting period.
